UNION CHURCH FOR
KOWLOON.INTERESTING ANNOUNCEMENT.
SIR PAUL CHATER DOUBLES HIS OFFER.

An interesting announcement in regard to the proposed Union Church for Kowloon was made by the Rev. J. Kirk Macdonald last night at the annual meeting of the shareholders of the Hongkong Union Church. Mr. A. S. D. Couland presided at the meeting, which was preceded by an organ recital by Mr. E. J. Chapman, a short concert and tea.

After the annual reports had been presented Mr. Couland emphasised the need for raising the usual amount to cover ordinary expenditure in spite of the fact that the church had received a generous endowment of $50,000 from Sir Paul Chater. This year if the income from the endowment were excluded there was, he pointed out, a small deficit. Mr. Couland also urged that the church should take greater interest in the work of the New Territories Evangelisation Society.

The Rev. J. Kirk Macdonald said he regretted that he had not more to report in connection with the proposed Union Church for Kowloon but perhaps considering the ordinary rate of progress in such matters in the Colony they must not be disappointed at this present position although he confessed he had hoped things would have been further forward.

"The press," Mr. Kirk Macdonald proceeded, "have shown a very great deal of interest in this matter and through the press the public have been kept pretty well informed on the matter. Our difficulties are summed up in the question of a site. The suggestions we have made have not met with the approval of the Government and the suggestions that the Government have made have seemed to us impossible so far. We seem to be in a cul-de-sac, though not perhaps without a glimmer. Two things have happened recently. I see no reason why I should not make it public now, though it is not entirely a surprise to some of you, that Sir Paul Chater has in the most generous and spontaneous manner doubled his offer and is now willing to put at our disposal a sum of $100,000 for this purpose if a satisfactory site can be secured (Applause)."

MILITARY AUTHORITIES APPROVE.

"I am sure you will all share in the warm feelings of grateful appreciation I cherish towards him for his great generosity. It is not everybody in the position to do such things who has the disposition to do it. I should like also to mention that an approach was made to us quite spontaneously on behalf of the local military authorities. After going into full details it amounts to this, that so far as they are concerned, they view the Kowloon project with approval and are prepared to do anything in their power to facilitate the provision of a proper site. They recognise that a Union Church at Kowloon will be for the benefit of the forces as well as the civilian population. I assure you it was a great pleasure to continue to meet the representatives of the military authorities and to find such hearty approval. The suggestion was made that portion of the land on the West side of Nathan Road now so largely occupied by mounds should be allotted for this purpose and that the Colonial Government, through whom it would have to pass, should approach the authorities in England to get this authorised before the completion of the big scheme for the transfer of the military establishments from the land they now occupy, which we all hope will be soon. It was thought that this might be done without waiting for the indefinite time which will have to elapse before the question is finally settled. We hoped this might have met with approval but it seems that the powers at home—believe me the Army Council—has made it known that they are not going to deal with the question except on the basis that that avenue is stopped. Nor will the Colonial Government give a definite undertaking as to the disposal of any land into the possession of which they expect to come in the future."

KOWLOON'S RELIGIOUS NEEDS.

"That is the present position. It is suggested that we might build a temporary church and gather together a congregation. It will be for the new committee to consider that question very seriously. It is said that there we should completely dispose of the argument that such a church was not needed in Kowloon. I should like to have ten minutes with anybody who says that such a church is not needed. I think the position which was drawn up and signed by 200 people, all residents in Kowloon should fairly dispose of the argument. Having been Minister of this church for ten years my opinion should be worth something and I believe that what we have is a real church in Kowloon."

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED.

New Church officers were elected as follows:—
Hon. Secretary—Mr. Onbey.
Hon. Treasurer—Mr. Onbey.

NEW SUN RUMOUR.
HONGKONG CHINESE TO RAISE LOAN?

PEKING, February 21.
It is reported that Dr. Sun Yat-sen has persuaded a wealthy Chinese in Hongkong to raise a loan of a million on the security of the revenue of the Canton mint.
Reuter.

CORRESPONDENCE.

SUN YAT-SEN.

(To the Editor of the "China Mail.")

Sir,—The world is really round after all. We have amongst us the highly-cultured man in the person of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, who was received here by the British Authorities with open arms. This man has always had anti-foreign feelings (remember he openly remarked on a previous occasion "Asia for the Asiatics") and his footsteps were keenly watched by the Police here immediately news was broadcasted of his intended return to Canton.

This man, who has been entertained at Government House and given an opportunity to speak at the University Union, was the very man who twelve months ago, when in power, actually supported the Labourers' movement during the Strike to the prejudice of British trade, commerce, shipping and industry.

From the information given in the Press, Dr. Sun (the liberator of a murderer) is leaving for Canton this morning for the purpose of restoring "order out of chaos." I can only hope that he will succeed and that he will not, within a short period of time, find that the Kwangtung climate is so unsuitable to his constitution as to demand a hasty departure to a colder climate, as was the case last time. If necessity should really demand a change, wire or wireless to the Colonial Secretary here will bring forth a British cruiser or a warship to convey Dr. Sun safely from a 90deg climate to a 30deg, one.

It is really surprising that during Dr. Sun's short sojourn in Hongkong a procession was not organized by the Labour organizations, unions, etc., to be headed by such high officials as Dr. Sun, H. E. the Governor, the Chancellor of the University, Heads of Government Departments, Official and Unofficial Members of the Legislative Council, and Representatives of the Military and Naval Authorities.

If the procession was organized, I could, perhaps, within a few hours' notice arrange to muster all the ex-members of the Hongkong Police Reserve Band to play, so as to enliven the proceedings, and it would then complete the welcome extended to the worthy politician and revolutionist, Dr. Sun Yat-sen, First President of the Republic of China and her Saviour.—Yours etc.

A RESIDENT.

Hongkong, February 21, 1923.

free children and Presbyterian community is going to continue to lose and I am not satisfied that it should do so. Nor do I think that a gentleman of Sir Paul Chater's knowledge and experience is likely to put up $100,000 for a trifle."

"The support we have had from the newspaper press, which is in close touch with public opinion, has been very encouraging. It is perfectly satisfactory to some people, no doubt, that there should be only one church in the large district of Kowloon but it is not satisfactory to us and I do not think it is to our credit or for the good of the Kingdom of Christ that our children should be deprived of the teaching of the church of their fathers. If we had a church there and if there were no Church of England and if the Church of England wanted to establish themselves, they would have my hearty support and good will (Heard, hear and applause). (I would say the same of the Roman Catholics. There are people, of course, who think of a church as a church, a place to which they never go. I think it is absolutely certain, as one of our local newspapers recently said when the matter was first mooted in the Colony, that if the position were reversed we should not be hearing that there is no need for a second church in Kowloon. (Applause)."

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED.

New Church officers were elected as follows:—
Hon. Secretary—Mr. Onbey.
Hon. Treasurer—Mr. Onbey.

INTERPORT GOLF.

SHANGHAI'S WONDERFUL
WIN.

YESTERDAY'S EXCITING PLAY.

No fight for interport sport honours has been more close and exciting than the two days' interport golf match between Shanghai and Hongkong, which was concluded yesterday at Fanling.

It was a rare treat to witness such a clever exhibition of golf as came from the Shanghai champion, J. B. Ferrier who at times during the game achieved the almost impossible. He certainly deserves the warm thanks of his team for no doubt it was partly through him that Shanghai was eventually able to pull off a win by seven points to five and thus carry away with them for the first time in ten years the interport golf trophy.

Right up till fifteen minutes yesterday the result of such keen play afforded little indication as to which was likely to be the victorious team. Up till then the teams were sharing three points each so that the final issue was left to be decided in yesterday's four ball encounters.

Shanghai won the first and second of these games by two and one to play. The third match went to Hongkong with eleven up and nine to play. Two points were awarded for each win on the four ball matches so that the results were as follows:—

SHANGHAI.

Singles.....3 points.
Four ball.....4

HONGKONG.

The results in detail were as follows:—

A good number of people took a big interest in the afternoon's play the best golf of the day being displayed by B. D. C. Morgan who went round in the morning in 73 which was just one too many for the record of the course, whilst Ferrier completed the afternoon round in 74 having previously hit the record with a 72.

VISITORS ENTERTAINED.

A DISPARAGED TROPHY.

The visiting golfers were entertained by the Royal Hongkong Golf Club to dinner at the Hongkong Hotel last night. Both interport teams were there and many other "golfs" enthusiasts as well. The chair was taken by the President of the R.H.K.G.C., the Hon. Mr. A. G. Stephen, who was supported by the President of the Shanghai Golf Club (Dr. R. B. Ivy) and the Captain of the Shanghai team (Mr. C. T. Beath). After the gathering had enjoyed the capital fare set before them the Hon. Mr. Stephen, glancing some, what disparagingly, at the trophy on the table in front of him, said: "I think we are all rather pleased that it has been necessary to take out this work of art to the light of day. I have just been told, though whether it is true or not I cannot vouch—I hope it is not—that this cup was presented by Sir Charles Addis. It is a monstrousity we shall be glad to get rid of." (laughter). The Chair man went on to say that he was very glad the conditions suggested by Captain Barrett had been accepted by the Hongkong Club. The result had been a most interesting, one might almost say, Homeric struggle, in which the best side won—(applause).—The condition that the cup should be played for alternately at the different ports was also a very sound one.

The outstanding feature of the match had been the extraordinary brilliant play of Mr. Ferrier who had played under unfamiliar conditions. They in Hongkong were not accustomed to see it put over their champion the way he had been this time—eight up and six to play. "I could hardly believe my ears," he added—(laughter). "It had been arranged and cancelled that we should play a match with the president of the Shanghai Club. He was doubtful whether that would have been a game worth seeing, but it certainly would have been a game worth hearing—(laughter).—Though Dr. Ivy was the mildest mannered man who ever relished suffering humanity, he thought that if he had him down in the bog in front of that seventh green, he might possibly lose some of his usual equanimity.

In conclusion, Mr. Stephen said he was sure they had all been delighted to see their visitors. "Again," he added, "I repeat how very glad we are to see you here. I hope you will see us up very soon to have a tussle again for this,—ahem,—work of art. I have never seen it before. I suppose it has rated in the vaults of the Bank."

After the trophy had been handed over to the Captain of the winning team and appropriate souvenirs had been handed to the members of both teams the health of the Shanghai men was heartily toasted.

Responding, Mr. Beath said he thought they were all pleased that the conditions of play had been changed. The competition had now become a really interesting one. Under the old conditions the honours rested with Hongkong by reason of the fact that they had won the trophy when playing away from home and had retained it ever since. He considered that the golf had been of a very high order (Heard, hear). He was very pleased that they were to have a visit from Hongkong, and whilst they could not offer them the beautiful surroundings of Fanling, he could promise them some excellent golf, and a very warm welcome. In conclusion Mr. Beath asked the Shanghai players to drink to the health of the Hongkong team and the Royal Hongkong Golf Club.

The toast was received with musical honours and was replied to by Mr. A. B. Stewart, the Captain of the Hongkong team. Having expressed thanks for the hearty way in which the toast had been received, Mr. Stewart said Shanghai had tried very hard to win the cup and had at last succeeded in doing so. He was hopeful of getting it back again. Mr. Stewart expressed thanks to Mrs. Ruffly for designing the menu cover, to Mr. J. B. Ross for making the arrangements for the dinner and to the ladies of the Club for arranging the table decorations.

Dr. R. S. Ivy, the President of the Shanghai Golf Club, expressed his appreciation of the hospitable manner in which the Shanghai team had been received, and said that some very disparaging remarks had been made about the interport trophy. Its intrinsic value might not be very much, but he hoped that they would look upon it as a symbol which had created for some years past the keen rivalry that existed among the golf clubs of the two ports. "You have had the cup for a good many years," Dr. Ivy concluded, "and I hope we shall keep it in Shanghai for just as long."

Mr. R. G. MacDonald of Shanghai also shortly addressed the gathering. An excellent musical programme followed the speeches and rounded off a very pleasant evening.

OSTRACISED BY TIENTSIN.

"LADY WITH BEDROOM EYES."

DIVORCE COURT STORY.

Her husband's demand for money the wife's refusal, and a subsequent scene outside the Ministry of Labour. A move to China, where the husband became friendly with a woman said to have been ostracised by Tientsin society, and known as "the lady with the bedroom eyes," and the sequel—a divorce nisi.

These incidents were mentioned as salient points in the story of an unhappy marriage told in the Divorce Court by Mrs. Dorothy Emily Crawford, who complained of her husband's cruelty and misconduct of her husband, Mr. Oswald S. Crawford, whom she married at Tonbridge Register office in 1920. There were two children.

Telling her story in the witness box, Mrs. Crawford said there were disagreements over money. Her husband showed a violent temper, threatened her, and attempted to strangle her.

In 1917 they lived at Ashburton-road, Addiscombe, where a number of "scenes" occurred.

She worked at the Ministry of Labour in London, and on one occasion her husband rang her up at the Ministry and demanded money.

She refused to supply him, and he came and created a scene outside and called her abusive names in the presence of a crowd which collected.

IN LEICESTER SQUARE.

In November, 1918, when they were walking in Leicester square, London, her husband was accosted by a woman, and when she asked who the woman was he flung her down. Her arm and ankle were injured.

Later, her husband got a position in China, and she joined him there in November, 1920.

Continuing, the wife said she surprised her husband writing a letter which, on seeing her he crumpled up and threw away. She recovered it and found it began "Dearest Betty" and that it made an appointment for the afternoon.

"Betty" was a Mrs. E. Blake Leitch, a woman who started on the fringe of Society at Tientsin, and was gradually ostracised. She was known as "the lady with the bedroom eyes."

Their house in Tientsin had a roof garden, and Mrs. Crawford, said while she was sitting up there in May and June, 1921, she frequently saw her husband go to Mrs. Leitch's house, where he would stay for two or three hours.

One evening in May, Mrs. Crawford said, she was on her verandah and saw Mrs. Leitch's motor-car go towards the town. Later she saw Mrs. Leitch and Mrs. Crawford returning in it, and Mrs. Leitch was in Mr. Crawford's arms.

In November, 1921, Mrs. Crawford said she came to England, and the following June she met her husband accidentally in London.

He confessed to his relations with Mrs. Leitch and asked for forgiveness. She refused to forgive him.

Mrs. Crawford was granted a decree nisi and the custody of the children.

SCHOOL PRIZES.ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE.*A SUCCESSFUL YEAR.

H.E. the Governor (Sir R. E. Stubbs, K.C.M.G.) gave away the awards at the annual prize distribution of St. Joseph's College yesterday afternoon.

There was a large gathering of parents of the students and friends of the College present, including the Hon. Mr. E. A. Irving (Director of Education), Mr. E. B. Ralphs (Inspector of English Schools) and Mr. Eric Rice.

The proceedings opened with an enjoyable concert programme presented by the students with the assistance of a few friends.

Rev. Bro. Michael, who had been acting Director of the College during the Rev. Bro. Aymar's absence on furlough in France, had prepared a report on the past year's work, which was read by Rev. Bro. Aymar.

After welcoming His Excellency the report went on to state:

The last scholastic year was very successful. Our average enrolment was 599, and the average attendance, 564. In our branch school in Kowloon the enrolment was 90 and the average attendance, 82. The annual inspection of the College was made by Mr. Ralphs and Mr. Forest on November 27 and 28, while that of our branch school was made by Mr. Forest on November 17.

The inspectors expressed their entire satisfaction with the work done, and have recommended the College to receive the highest grant. In the University Examinations, 21 passed the Matriculation, (4 winning honours) and seven the Senior Local.

In both examinations 15 distinctions were awarded, of which 6 went to English. Thirty-five passed the Junior Local. The distinctions in this class totalled 22 including 7 in English. In connection with the University, I wish to call the attention of some parents and guardians to the following.

Some students who fail in the University Examinations, and a few who pass, for some reason or other, perhaps being promised scholarships, go to America to complete their education. On reaching there, not having had a high school education, they have to enter a grade school or engage a teacher until they are prepared to take the entrance examination. Most of these students return without having accomplished anything and what is worse, they contract idle habits, are always discontented, and seldom settle down to hard work. We have our own University and it is our duty, as it should be our pride, to do all in our power to make it second to none in the Empire. The education imparted here is best suited to our boys. The professors know, not only the character of the students, but also their needs, and as a rule, the students finishing here, succeed, while many who go abroad fail. I am pleased to state that our Portuguese students are fully alive to the need of higher education; not only are they anxious to pass their matriculation examination, but some of those who have passed have come back to continue their studies so as to be better prepared to take up University work. In the new future we hope to have our science hall equipped. We shall thus be in a position to meet the requirements of the University syllabus and to comply with the wishes of the scientifically inclined among our students.

Our Scouts are doing fairly well. Last year they were deprived of their outing owing to the constant rain during the time they had fixed for camp life.

Our Boarding department has been entirely renovated during the past year. We have reduced the number by 27, so as to have more space in the dormitory. I am pleased to announce that we have our own cinematograph, so that the boys may enjoy themselves without leaving the College, and see nothing but clean films.

The year 1922 will be long remembered by the people of Hong Kong and especially by the students, as it brought to our Colony His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales. The very disagreeable weather in no way lessened the patriotism of the students of the College who left nothing undone to honour their future king. That the boys of St. Joseph's College did more than was expected of them to honour His Royal Highness, may be seen from the beautiful photo bearing the Prince's signature, which the Hon. Mr. Irving and the Committee presented to the College. The Prince said he was greatly pleased with the appearance of our boys.

I wish to express my gratitude to our devoted staff for their wholehearted co-operation. Where there is union there is strength and advancement, and with none is this union more necessary than with teachers. I thank the St. Vincent de Paul Society for what they have done to help us, not only in paying the school fees of poor boys, but also in supplying a large number of boys with books. I am also grateful to the ladies of the Hong Kong Benevolent Society for having helped some of our poor boys.

I have now stated what our boys, physically and intellectually are doing, but this is far from sufficient, to make the upright man and good citizen. As great and necessary as are the three Rs, for the welfare of our students, we cannot seem to respect for authority, loyalty to the State, and fidelity to duty, unless we add a fourth R—Religion. If the name of Him from whom all authority comes, be excluded from our curriculum, how can we expect obedience to law and assistance in the hour of need?

"Education," says Mr. Gladstone "in the hands of men who acknowledge no authority, but force, is a menace and not a benefit to Society." Education should be the formation of character, that will prevent the young man in mature years from swerving from duty, path and being swept into the whirlpool of some of those movements that bid fair to sap the very foundations of a modern Society. Happy and peaceful is the State where the children are taught their duty to God, and their country. To do this without Religion is impossible.

In conclusion, I avail myself of this opportunity to thank your Excellency and all the members of your Executive Council, as well as the heads of the Education department for the many favours granted our College.

I assure your Excellency, it shall ever be our duty to leave nothing undone to form the boys who are entrusted to our care on that model I have just described, so that the students of St. Joseph's College may ever be faithful to God, their country, and their King.

In the course of a few personal remarks Brother Aymar said:

"Inclusive of the four members who returned a short time ago, the present staff comprises eleven Brothers and ten local masters. Twenty-one of our old boys are actually pursuing their studies in the University of Hong Kong. After an absence of two years, I am glad to avail myself of this opportunity to tell them that their old teachers have a genuine desire to see them get on, and will applaud their future University achievements as they did their distinguished scholastic records in the past. I am sure that these young men begin to realize that life is a struggle in which those who are not well equipped by education and character will go under. It therefore behooves them to be up and doing both for their own sake and for that of their Alma Mater which in great part looks to their most distinguished past students for the realization of her most cherished ideals."

With a view to provide education in the widest sense for our boys, we shall teach the Commercial branches in one division of Classes 3 and 3 this year, and next year in Class 1 also. The shorthand lesson will be given before the regular school hours, so that full time may be devoted to special prominence given to those subjects, such as English, which form the very groundwork of and furnish the key to the whole educational system.

For those of our pupils who will take the complete Matriculation course, we shall begin Science Classes at the earliest possible date. Elementary Science will be introduced into Class 3 this year, and within three years, regular courses in accordance with the requirements of the University programmes will be organized.

It was very gratifying for me to read in the report of the Sub-

Committee of the Board of Education that the new buildings are admirable in every way. To complete the material organisation of the College it is necessary to cover a portion of the playground as a shelter in hot or wet weather.

"I am in favour of erecting on the covered way a two-story building the first floor of which would be a permanent hall for school examinations and functions, and the second would be fitted up and used for the teaching of science—physics and chemistry. A considerable fund is needed for the carrying out of this project. With the assistance of the Government, the public, our old boys, and our own little economies, we entertain high hopes of realising it, and of making the formal opening of the latest and probably the last annex to the college group of buildings one of the outstanding events marking the celebration of the golden jubilee of the College under the management of the Brothers early in 1925."

Before distributing the prizes His Excellency The Governor remarked that they were all pleased to see Brother Aymar back once more, though they would be sorry to lose Brother Michael. With reference to Brother Michael's remarks as to boys going abroad to become in many cases failures when they went for foreign University courses, he thought the view was a rather gloomy one. He did feel, however, that there was a very great danger of young men coming to grief if they tried to complete their education abroad too early, and at a time when their characters would not be firmly set. Now that the Hong Kong University provided a really excellent education he trusted they would find cases of boys going abroad for that purpose very rare, and that they would first go to the Hong Kong University and then go to England or America for a post graduate course.

His Excellency then distributed the prizes. The successful matriculation candidates were—

June, 1922—Philippe Tran Ba Huy, Mak Kwong Chung.

November, 1922—Elias Rumbun, Philippe Tran Ba Huy, Ngo Ky Huong, P. Le Van Phuc, Fezally Hiptoolin, Marcus A. Silva.

ITALIAN CONVENT.A GOOD RECORD.

The annual prize distribution of the Italian Convent school took place yesterday afternoon in the presence of a large attendance.

Lady Brunyate gave away the awards to the successful students. She was escorted by Mr. N. Teedale Mackintosh (Registrar of the University). Among others present were the Rev. Fathers Robert, Garabelli, Novati, Martinico, Breton and Souvey.

In the absence of Rev. Father P. de Maria (Correspondent of Catholic Schools), Mr. F. H. Barnes read the annual report of the school. An excellent musical programme was contributed to by the girls of the school who acquitted themselves admirably, particularly Miss G. Horley and Miss E. Neves in their piano-forte selections. An amusing sketch entitled "The Lady Doctor" was also presented, in which the Misses Gardner, D. Leonard, M. Danenberg took part.

THE REPORT.

Mr. F. H. Barnes read the correspondent's annual report for 1922 as follows:

It is with the greatest pleasure that I undertake the welcome task of reporting on the Italian Convent School work during 1922, because from year to year a greater improvement is noticeable throughout the School.

The average daily attendance is 466.6, namely 12% more than the previous year, the highest enrolment of 497 being in the month of February.

The Staff, as stated in the Inspector's Report is adequate, according to Code requirement.

As regards organisation the School consists of the usual eight classes and in addition three kindergarten classes and four special classes for Chinese pupils who specialise in English after having completed their Chinese course of studies. The discipline is excellent.

The general remarks of the written work were as being very good throughout, reading and pronunciation greatly improved.

"The pupils," writes Mr. E. Ralphs, "in every class read and recite carefully, yet fluently; they answer orally questions in the various school subjects eagerly and with intelligence."

"The Kindergarten Classes are skilfully conducted and the children are happy and intelligently interested in their work."

"Drawing, taught on the modern system, is very successful, the results even in the lowest classes, being remarkably good. In the Senior classes some very artistic design work is done. Needlework is a special feature and is excellently done throughout. The School is undoubtedly doing very efficient and very useful work."

UNIVERSITY RESULTS.

During the year one pupil entered for the Matriculation Examinations of the Hong Kong University, Miss Tam Oi-ngan, who passed with distinction in English. This pupil not only passed the Matriculation Examination, but was successful in obtaining the open Government Scholarship as an Education Student at the Hong Kong University. She has since taken up a course in the Faculty of Arts.

Seven pupils entered for the Senior Examinations, and all passed, two with honours—Miss Dolores Talmage (Distinction in English); Miss May Dillon (Distinction in Needlework); while Miss Lowe Poy Qan obtained Distinction in English.

Sixteen entered for the Junior Local Examinations and fifteen passed, Miss Eugenia Cabuco with Distinction in English and Biblical Knowledge, Miss Kwok Yik Ming, with Distinction in English, Miss Yeung Wai Lim with Distinction in Drawing.

Miss Elizabeth Thomas is the winner of the Lugard Scholarship for the year 1922-1923. Misses Katie Sullivan and Helena Akana are the winners of Lady Ho Tung Scholarship for Good Conduct and Application.

The names added to the list of girls who distinguished themselves for integrity and unselfishness in the year 1922 is that of Miss Chow Sook Chuan. As usual the pupils took part in St. Joseph's Sports and several other private events in the Convent Ground. Girl Guides continue their interesting Drill and Tracking Exercises, which they enjoy keenly.

The prizes were then distributed by Lady Brunyate.

Mr. Mackintosh expressed regret at the absence of Sir William Brunyate, Chancellor of the University, who was attending a conference in Shanghai and was therefore unable to be present. He referred to the indebtedness they all felt to Lady Brunyate for consenting to distribute the prizes. Speaking of the school, he drew attention to its prosperity and the fine successes it had attained during the past year. The participation in external examinations was a good sign and afforded a good test by which parents could judge of what education their children were getting. Mr. Mackintosh then proceeded to address a few words of friendly criticism to the girls, particularly mentioning the need for greater attention to mathematics, foreign languages and domestic science.

Master Noel then presented a beautiful bouquet of flowers to Lady Brunyate, after making a witty little speech which evoked laughter and applause.

KWANGSI BANKNOTE CASE.FULL COURT JUDGMENT.

Yesterday afternoon, the Chief Justice (Sir William Rees Davies) and the Puisne Judge (Mr. Justice Gompertz), sitting in Full Court, delivered judgment on the legal points which were argued before the Court, arising out of the Kwangsi Banknote case at the last sessions.

Their Lordships quashed the conviction by the jury on the first count but upheld the finding on the second count.

Following upon the decision the two prisoners were again brought before the Judge in Criminal Sessions.

Before the prisoners were sentenced Mr. Zeitlyn for the defence, pleaded for leniency. He pointed out that they had been inveigled down from Canton on the promises of the man Tsou who was in charge of the whole thing. He had agreed to pay them the monthly salaries of five dollars a month, but they had not received this sum, for they were arrested before the month was out. In addition to that they had been in prison ever since November.

His Honour passed sentence of two years' imprisonment on each prisoner. The Chief Justice in a written judgment referred to the reasons he had given orally, why the first count could not stand. As to the second count of "forging certain documents to wit notes purporting to be one dollar notes of the Kwangsi Bank," His Lordship reviewed section 6 of the Ordinance under which the charge was brought, arriving at the conclusion that the section intended to bear a wide construction. After going into the evidence and explaining the definitions of "forgery," His Lordship referred to Mr. Zeitlyn's arguments and authorities, quoted, designating the latter as based on specific statutory provision with no relation to the extended provision of section 6. His Lordship also gave several authorities as to the construction of the word "document," saying:

"There can be no doubt whatever that the subject matter in question is a document." The verdict of the jury on this count must stand.

The Puisne Judge, also in a written judgment, said that he was unable to find on the notes any promise express or implied to pay cash. There was evidence at one time that silver could be got for these Kwangsi notes but His Honour was not satisfied on the evidence before the court that payment could be demanded as of right. On the whole, therefore, the conviction on the first count must be quashed. On the second count, His Honour said he had little difficulty. On the evidence before the Court, he was satisfied that these notes were "documents" within the meaning of section 6 (1) of the Foreign Ordinance. The word in his opinion was used in the section in the widest sense. It therefore followed that the conviction on the second count was right and must be affirmed.

TO KOWLOON CITY.NEW BUS SERVICE.

It is learned that a new bus service, plying from Tsimshatsui to Kowloon City, and from Yeumai to Kowloon City, is being inaugurated under the auspices of the Kai Tak Company, the guiding spirit of which is Mr. Wong Kwong Tin, J.P., who was recently appointed member of the Sanitary Board.

It will be recalled that the great reclamation work in Kowloon City Bay was carried out by the Kai Tak Company, and the growth of Kowloon City is due largely to its efforts and enterprise.

DEATH OF WALLY REID.

PLANNERS' PICTUREDOL.

Wally Reid, idol of the flapper millions, beloved of all whose eyes follow in grief or joy the moving row of magic shadow shapes, has heard the motion picture director shout "Camera!" for the last time. The cable dispatch carried more than the news of his death; it sounded the knell of a blighted ambition.

This doubling of a tragedy—the snuffing out of a life yet young and the quick stoppage of a brilliant career—bears a special significance for me, as I believe I am the only person in Australia at present who met Wallace Reid personally on two different occasions," writes Wilson Hicks. You know, it is enough to stir the heart to sorrow when a celebrity passes on—all you movie fans have been sad about Mr. Reid—but when one has known the celebrity, shaken his hand, talked with him—well, it brings one closer to the fact.

It must have been about four years ago that I met Mr. Reid the first time. I was in Kansas City, Missouri, on the editorial staff of the "Star" there, when he arrived. I was in the party that met him at the railway depot; he was a star in Paramount Pictures then, as he was at the time of his death, and the escort consisted of men from the Kansas City branch of that organization and of persons from the press.

ONCE A JOURNALIST.

The movie star, centre of every gaze, was taken to the office of the "Star" to meet the men in charge there. I remember clearly standing in the editorial room, near the city desk, talking to Mr. Reid about journalism. He branched under the influence of rush and tumble that accompanied the issuance of an edition, the frantic calls to office boys to deliver copy, the mad click of typewriters. He had once been a journalist; I remember him telling me how he had worked on a newspaper in Newark, N.J.—and had "flunked" on a five story—later to become one of the editors of "Motor Magazine."

It was cool that day, and Mr. Reid wore a top-coat, but under the spell of the city desk he grew warm and enthusiastic. I do not doubt that he would have become a successful pressman, natural love of the work was so strong in him, but the lure of the stage and the fact that his father, Hal Reid, had been a prominent dramatist and nursed stage ambitions for his son, made him modify his own inclinations.

Also, I remember sitting down before a typewriter to pound out my interview with the man who then, as at his death, was the idol of screen enthusiasts everywhere. But about the interview I recall only that I mentioned he had a tooth filled with gold (which, of course, doesn't show in screen photographs), and that he wore an old gold ring on one of his full, mainly fingers.

After the office visit Mr. Reid was whisked away to his hotel. I again caught a fleeting glimpse of him as he entered a theatre in Kansas City to talk at the opening performance. A new theatre it was, and the crowd that surrounded it because of the star's presence surged and swung until the last light flicked out that night. He was in his evening clothes, with his blond hair slicked to perfection, and I know positively that, while he made a brave go of it, he didn't at all enjoy appearing before the crowd. I had already seen enough of him to know that he was not unlike most men as possessing modesty and an aversion to receiving bouquets ruthlessly in public.

DISTINCTIVE NIGHT ATTIRE.

It could not have been much more than two years ago that I met Mr. Reid the second time. Again he was in Kansas City, and I went to the Hotel Muehlebach to see him. Perhaps no one had met him any more intimately, for when I rang up his room—he was still in bed. But he gave me a cheery welcome, and as I entered he rose long enough to greet me, then pulled back among the covers for the chat.

Oddly enough, my clearest remembrance of that second meeting was of Mr. Reid's habit. He was in his pyjamas, of course—and they were purple. Now, many men have fallen for purple pyjamas, no doubt, and some men perhaps condemn them with good Australian oaths, but Wallace Reid was unafraid, and this is positively true—still, a man's man, despite his nocturnal raiment.

From his reclining posture Mr. Reid gave me the information I wanted—which information, suffice to say, bore on subjects of that day and the movies which have dimmed now into insignificance. But through both chats I noticed the vigour of mind and physique that Mr. Reid possessed, and I know from a single look that he was, while no more debonair than any other man of his age and outlook, a hard worker and a serious-minded artist. The purple pyjamas were merely a part of the general scene, adopted for the manifest reason that a movie star had to be different.

Mr. Reid stood easily off, weighing about 12 stone, while his hair was light brown and his eyes blue. He was the son of Hal Reid, writer of melodramas, and his first appearance on the stage was at the age of 4, when he played a role in "Slave of Gold," in which both his parents were appearing. When 19 his family removed to a small New Jersey town, where he received early scholastic training; then he entered a military academy.

Through his school years writing was his hobby. Later he went into vaudeville, enacting a role in a sketch his father had written, and from the stage he went into the movies about the time they were winning in their struggle against the sceptics, who would keep them toys instead of substantial entertainment mediums.

REID'S RAPID RISE.

At first, Mr. Reid both acted and directed pictures. He wrote scenarios, he operated a camera. But he was soon chosen, because of his appearance and personality, to act and do nothing else. His rise was rapid and brilliant, and of late years, for the famous Players-Lasky Corporation, he has appeared in such films as "The Dancing Fool," "Don't Tell Everything," "Across the Continent," and "Forever." His characteristics vary from comic to darkly serious.

Mr. Reid's widow, was, before her marriage, Dorothy Davenport, who had appeared on the screen, but who gave up her acting career to take care of her child and home. There is one son, William Wallace Reid, jun., and an adopted daughter, Betty Mummert Reid.

It was in the midst of a production that Mr. Reid was taken ill. Since his retirement in a valiant attempt to recover, conflicting stories have become current as to the nature of his illness. Official information has it that a nervous breakdown, coupled with an ailment of the eyes due to long work under strong lights in the studio, weakened his condition that he was unable to withstand a subsequent attack of pneumonia.

If you can imagine how buoyant and alive Mr. Reid was in actuality, you can imagine how he hated to leave life. The screen loses one of its brightest luminaries at the age of 33 years.—Sydney Sun.

CINEMA AND EDUCATION.

A SUGGESTIVE DISCUSSION.

"The Child and the Cinema" was the subject of a discussion at the Conference of Educational Associations, at University College, London, on New Year's Day, when Dr. C. W. Kinnmins, Chief Inspector of the Education Department of the London County Council, read a paper before the British Psychological Society. Dr. Ballard presided.

The Chairman said that what had particularly impressed him at the cinema was that most of the pictures dealt with pursuit and fugitives. If a boy did anything which brought him within reach of the law the cause of his downfall was often supposed by superior people to be a visit to the cinema. He had himself never seen anything particularly demoralizing at the cinema, though he had often found the spectacle tedious and melodramatic.

Dr. Kinnmins said that very important research relating to the subject had been going on at University College, and had now been completed, and a valuable report would be published. The ideal form of censorship of films and the best way of safeguarding the child from unsuitable material in cinema theatres were very important matters, but he had no doubt that a satisfactory solution would be found. During the sittings of the Cinema Commission organized by the National Council of Public Morals the members became more or less regular witnesses dealt with films which they considered to be improper, the trade members of the Commission arranged for these to be seen at a small theatre. So the Commission became undoubtedly acquainted with what might be termed borderline productions. In some cases they found that the evidence of witnesses grossly over-estimated the injurious elements in the films. They saw improper film after improper film—(laughter)—or rather films that were reported to be improper. It was a very juridical experience.

He made an investigation of the type of film which made the greatest appeal to children of different ages in selected schools in poor and well-to-do districts. He obtained 6,700 accounts of favourite films, a large proportion of which were well and graphically described. The main groups yielded the following results. Domestic and fairy stories, 25 per cent.; adventure films, 15; comic films, 15; history films, 11; "crook" films, 5; and educational films—at the bottom of the list—2 per cent.—(Laughter). It appeared that no less than 92 per cent. of the children tested went to the cinema. In a poor district, out of more than 8,000 children only thirty-two boys and fifty girls had not visited the picture houses.

There was so much difference between experts as to the educational value of the cinema—that when the Commission issued its report it was decided that an Education Committee, of which he was appointed chairman, should continue the investigation. A sub-committee was formed to deal with experiments relating to cinematograph appliances and its report would be published in the near future. Another sub-committee was appointed for psychological research. The investigation was now completed and the report in course of preparation. Among other important points covered by research was the educational importance of the length of the retention by the child of the moving image, as in the cinema, compared with the static image, as in the lantern slide. He could not divulge the findings of the report of the research sub-committee, but he had permission to announce that the results were highly favourable to the cinema as an instrument of education.

After referring to the clear value of films in illustrating expeditions, geography, and nature study, Dr. Kinnmins said that on other subjects the witnesses showed great diversity of opinion. The education film had been handicapped so far by the necessity of making it also serve other purposes, and the really educational film had yet to be produced. It certainly would be of little use for popular audiences. There would appear to be great possibilities in the cinema for the cultivation of aesthetic appreciation. If there were further developments in colour photography there should be no limit to these facilities. He found that reading an exciting book had much more effect upon dreams than seeing cinema films. Music relieved the strain of purely visual attention in the cinema. If the suggestions in the report of experts to the London County Council were fully carried out there should be no object to the cinema on the score of eye-strain.

STARS IN THE ASCENDANT.

Despite the bad times which have prevailed in British film-land during the past year, several hitherto unknown artists have made their mark during that time, and are now established as leading British players. Amongst these are Victor McLaglen, who made a hit in his very first film, and has established himself as a favourite over his past year's work. Prominent amongst the films in which he has played are "Corinthian Jack," "The Little Brother of God," "A Sailor Tramp," and "The Roman." Valia is yet another artist whose reputation as a screen actress has brought her well to the fore during 1922. After her appearance in "The Fruitful Vine," she has played leading parts in "The Little Brother of God," "A Romance of Wastdale," "A Gamble with Hearts," "The Green Caravan," and "Shifting Sands." She is now engaged on a leading part in "The Stag Garden," which is being filmed in Italy.

Although well known on the stage, it was during 1922 that Fred Wright first became prominent as a film actor. Apart from his character work in several of the Sherlock Holmes films, he also appeared with success in "The Glorious Adventure," and has just finished a modern Captain Kettle role in "Hornets Nest."

MADGE STUART.

Already established as a star when 1922 commenced, Madge Stuart has been kept busy by British producers during the last twelve months, and has played more "innocent bad girls" in that time than the majority of screen stars. Films which gave her ample scope for her work as a dramatic actress were the short films in which she appeared for Quality Plays. "The Crimson Circle," "A Gamble with Hearts," also gave her good opportunities, and she is now proving her versatility by playing leading parts in "What the Butler Saw" and "The Uninvited Guest."

As a screen humorist, perhaps Hugh E. Wright has made as big an impression as any other British actor.

Derek Glynn, Molly Wright, and Betty Doyle are amongst the newcomers to the land of films, but they have achieved much, for all three have played leading parts and have made no small success in them.

Some of the old favourites of British screen-land will have to be replaced sooner or later, and meanwhile the newcomers which of the artists whose names have flashed on the screen for the first time during 1922 will be hailed by the public as their new favourites.

ROMANTIC SINGAPORE!

AMERICAN PRODUCER'S FILM.

That there was romance waiting round every corner in Singapore was one of the declarations of Miss Beatrice Grimsbaw, when the authorities in Singapore a month or two ago, and it was an assertion which most of us accepted at the time with scepticism, says the Singapore Free Press. Now one is almost persuaded to believe that she was not altogether wrong, for one of America's leading cinema producers has found sufficient romance here to decide to produce a seven-part film, within the next few months, in which Singapore will play a prominent part.

An American sea captain from San Francisco, a charming heroine connected with a Buddhist temple in Singapore, a stolen jewel, and a mysterious Buddhist priest figure in the romantic story, said Mr. B. G.

Vignola, the producer of the Paramount success, "When Knighthood was in Flower," in the course of an interview with a Free Press reporter shortly before the Canard Enluminé, "Lakonia," bore him and his world-touring fellow countrymen away to India.

"The story," he said, "is founded upon a well-known book, 'Black Magic,' by F. Burton Austin, and takes in the Buddhist temple on the outskirts of Singapore (Balestier Road). I had previously read of this temple, and this morning we went out to see it and to take a lot of photographs to guide us in the production of the film. I was asked to produce the picture about three years ago, but it is only since I left America and knew that I was coming to Singapore that I really resolved to do so. After what we have seen here to-day it will be necessary to re-write the story, giving it a truer atmosphere of the East." Mr. Vignola spoke with pardonable pride about his latest success, "When Knighthood was in Flower." He declared that it cost one and a half million dollars to produce; more than three thousand people took part in it, the preparation occupied two months, and the actual shooting of the scenes four months.

MAY ALLISON "CAPTURED." May Allison, the captivating film star, who is also a member of the "Lakonia" party, was "captured" by a crowd of her Singapore admirers almost as soon as she set foot on the liner on her return from the city, and her importunate besiegers were not satisfied until the popular actress had accepted a large floral bouquet from them. In common with her fellow tourists, she expressed her delight at her Singapore experiences, regretting that they were obliged to leave so soon. Some interesting expressions of opinion were obtained in the course of a conversation with her husband, Mr. Robert Ellis Reel, himself a well-known film producer, who after long experience with such combines as Selznick, Metro and Famous Players, intends upon his return to America to form his own company in which his wife will star.

Mr. Ellis Reel stated that in undertaking this trip none of them were actuated merely by the desire for a holiday of ease. They were taking numerous photographs of Oriental buildings, scenery and people in all the towns and cities they visited, which would be of the greatest value in the production of films dealing with the East and matters Eastern. Mr. Ellis Reel was emphatic as to the shortcomings of the film profession in this direction. Boldly ignoring the warning that companions are often odious, he also declared that the reason for America's position in the forefront of film producing was largely the result of the European War. For five years, he said, England was obliged to stand still, while America was about to carry on, perfecting and gaining experience in the production of films. English acting was every bit as good as American, and it is the actual production of film in England was making rapid strides.

At the present time, he stated there are in the American film studios numerous men connected with the English companies who are in the States studying American methods. The story opens at Ostend in 1903, then the gayest seashore resort in Belgium. Little Jeanne Bodamere and her pleasure-loving mother are summering at Ostend, where Madame Bodamere meets Elton Reeves, a wealthy New Yorker. After a whirlwind courtship Reeves and Madame Bodamere marry. Little Jeanne is consigned to the care of her nurse, Marie, for one year, against the mother's wishes and only because the new husband insists.

Five years pass before Mrs. Reeves returns for her little daughter. The old nurse, meanwhile has married and has come to regard little Jeanne as her own. She tells the mother the child is dead.

Losing her husband for the loss of her baby, Mrs. Reeves becomes fretful and discontented. They return to America, but not even Reeves' riches bring happiness to the disconsolate mother.

Meanwhile war breaks out in Europe. Fearing for Jeanne's safety, the nurse sends her to America with a note of explanation to her mother. Circumstances conspire to prevent Jeanne from presenting this note. She is forced to enter her mother's home as a servant through the back door. Thus does the story get its name.

In the capacity of maid, Jeanne discloses a blackmailing conspiracy against her step-father, reveals her identity to her mother in a touching scene and brings back to this household the lovebird which was about to fly away.

A clever property man is one of the greatest adjuncts to that army of men composing the staff which surrounds a director who is making an exceptional motion picture. Upon the property man falls the responsibility of being able to get anything that a director may wish to use in the making of his scenes.

Of course, in making a society play the task is comparatively simple to that of furnishing "props" for period plays. Since the beginning of the production of "Hamlet," which was seen at the Coronet Theatre this week Louis J. Gasnier, who is directing the production, has had his property men in hot water day and night in order to get the many unusual things that are required.

A caravan of camels and ten donkeys were ordered one afternoon. When Mr. Gasnier arrived on the set he looked the animals over and approved them. Then turning to the property man he took out a memorandum and handed it to him with the instructions that he wanted "those few little things" about a week.

"Yes sir, you'll have them," replied "Props" before he looked at the list. Then walking off by himself he read: "15 lanky dogs covered with fleas; 21 more donkeys, 300 goats, and half a dozen mice camels." So it started.

"Props" eyes grew large.

"One three-week-old Turkish baby and mother, 14 prayer rugs, one seven-foot hog, one ten pound box of macaroni, one large butterfly and two small butterflies, and an ancient Turkish rapier in working condition." It ended.

No wonder "Props" looked a little

Jackie Coogan, the juvenile film star who made his name when he appeared with Charlie Chaplin in "The Kid" has been offered $500,000 in advance to join the United Artists, of which Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford are the moving spirits. The child's large income is held in trust for him by his parents.

NEW FILM STAR.

MISS MAISIE FISHER.

Miss Maisie Fisher, a 17-years-old English girl, was selected by Mr. J. Stuart Blackton to play the role of Mary Queen of Scots, with Lady Diana Manners as Queen Elizabeth, in his new film, "The Virgin Queen," just completed.

Mr. Blackton saw Miss Fisher dancing at a school where his children are pupils and was struck by her resemblance to Miss Norma Talmadge at the time he gave Miss Talmadge her first part—the little seamstress in a film based on Dickens' "A Tale of Two Cities."

He invited Miss Fisher to take up film work, and a few days later took a screen test of her and found she showed an aptitude for the work. A small part in "A Gipsy Cavalier" followed, in which she did so well that Mr. Blackton decided to cast her for the role of Mary Stuart in "The Virgin Queen." Mr. Blackton expects Miss Fisher to develop into an splendid film actress.

INTERPORT FOOTBALL

SHANGHAI BEATEN BY SERVICES.

The third and final game was played yesterday between Shanghai and a team from the United Services. Owing to injuries the Shanghai team were only able to field ten men and Butler, one of the Services Reserves, turned out for them at centre forward.
 The Services won the toss and Jones elected to defend the town end. Goldsmith started the game and the Services were soon attacking. Miller leading behind. Jones came down and passed to Weymans, Hood heading over. At the other end Wynne was fouled and Jones receiving went in and scored the first goal for the Services. Shanghai attacked but the defence held them and Boulter neatly robbed Goldman. Jones sent wide when in a good position and later a fine centre from the right went begging the inside forwards not being up. The Services came again and a foul against Wilson close in saw Lelliott place finely but Wilson handled in the danger zone. Hudson was entrusted with the spot kick and made no mistake with the shot, putting the Services two up. Shanghai now attacked in earnest and the Services backs and goalie had a warm five minutes. Townsend coming out to save an almost certain goal. Johansson sent in wide a d later Brodie put over the top. Half time score: Services two goals. Shanghai none.

Shanghai got away from the restart but Wynne cleared, and Hudson sent in wide from a long shot. Remedios saved well from Darlington and Wilson conceded a corner, the ball going behind from the kick. A visit was paid to the other end, Dailey going down on the right, and from his centre Goldman scored. Townsend reached but failed to hold the ball. A good movement by the Services' forward line was spoilt by offside play. Jones was injured and play was stopped for a time. Hudson sent over, from a pass by Brodie. Hudson worked the ball down on the right and pushing forward to Hood that player tested Remedios. The latter saved but failed to hold and Jones dashed up and sent into the net. From the centre kick the Services came right down and Jones scored no 4 with the best shot of the afternoon. Service pressed but Wilson cleared to Dailey who again made a fine run down the right wing, finishing up by passing to Johansson for that player to beat Townsend with a first time shot. Time was now getting close and both sides tried hard to score, and eventually Hood, receiving a pass from Jones, went in and scored the Services' fifth goal. The final whistle went as soon as the ball was kicked off.

Result: Services five goals. Shanghai two.
 Referee—Mr. P. Smith. Linesmen: Messrs. Hollands and Williams.
 Teams:
 United Services:—Townsend; Wynne and Boulter; Newton, Hudson and Lelliott; Miller, Darlington, Jones, Hood and Weymans.
 Shanghai:—Remedios; Wilson and Ollerden; Knight, Butler (Ambrase) and McDonald; Dailey, Phillips, Goldman, Johansson and Brodie.
 Last evening the Shanghai team were entertained by the Hongkong Football Association at a dinner dance in the Raffles Bay Hotel. This was the last entertainment arranged as the team will leave the Colony to-day for Shanghai by the "Empress of Russia."

BEGAN WHEN A GIRL.

Neglect of symptoms which first became apparent when she was emerging from childhood into womanhood has caused many a girl's life of suffering in later life. Such was the case with Mrs. Mabel Johnston, an American lady residing at 27, Devonshire Street, East Boston, Mass., who fortunately ultimately found the help she needed in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.
 "My distress began when I was a girl," relates Mrs. Johnston. "Oversturdy and lack of outdoor exercise caused a breakdown in my health, and I never knew what it was to be as strong as most of the girls of my acquaintance. I was pale and so nervous that it seemed as though I should fly to pieces. I suffered from headaches a great deal of the time and didn't sleep well. I lost flesh and strength and my appetite was poor.
 "When I was a young woman a friend recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and she was so sure that they would help me that I got a supply of the pills and began to take them. They helped me in much shorter time than I had expected for I had been ill so long. My appetite improved almost at once. Gradually my strength returned and I gained in weight and felt better in every way I became less nervous and rarely have a headache now.
 "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists or direct from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 6, Kingston Road, Shanghai, at $1.50 per bottle, $3.00 for six, post free. Regularly good for men."
